George Washington's birthday will be celebrated this year with more or less large and for affairs. The Omaha club will hold namual banquet for the men. The Ploneers club will give a large reception in celebration of the day. The Colonial Dames will entertain with an interesting program at Castellar school.

Among the other social affairs will be the George Washington dancing party given by the Et-A-Virp club, Friday evening. The women of the First Presbyterian church will serve a George Washington supper Priday evening when the young women of the church, who assist, will wear colonial contume.

Omahans to Lincoln Prom.

University of Nebraska students will welcome this week the largest social event that the college has ever celebrated. The first senior-tunior promenade, a combination of the former senior and junior proms, will be given Friday evening at the Lincoln Auditorium with between 325 and 250 couples in attendance. Many tickets for the dance have been sold to Omaha alumni of the University of Ne-

Ralph Sweeley, chairman of the sentor committee, is in charge of the event and Sam Carrier has been elected master of ceremonies. The preparations are especially elaborate. The Auditorium will be decorated over its great roof expanse with the colors of the university and the class colors and banks of flowers will make up a part of the decorations and conceal the fourteen-piece orchestra. The majority of dances at Lincoln under the auspices of the university are usually held at the Lincoln hotel, which will accommodate nearly 100 couple, but the management of the Senior and Junior Proms this year decided to give one large affair and have it at the Auditorium. The floor of the Auditorium has been entirely refinished and accommodations made for the 500 people who will -e present.

Fiji Annual Pig Dinner.

members of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity entertained at their annual pig banquet lest evening at the University club.

There are many quaint customs observed at this annual feast of the Fijis The oldest member of the fraternity pres ent sits at the head of the table and the youngest member at the foot. The former is given the head of the roast pig. while the latter receives only the pig's tail as his portion of tius course, and he has to appease his hunger as best he can on soup, salads and dessert, while his merry companions are feasting on the rest of the luscious young porker.

The first pig dinner given by the fraternity was at one of the colleges in California. A young pig has been sent to one of the fraternities, but the freshmen Pijis stole the pig and took it to a cafe, where they had it roasted. Among the Phi Gamma Delta men at the original inal feast was the last Frank Norris. author of The Pit.

To You-Sir or Madam,

Who admire Oriental Rugs and intend to purchase one or more in the near future.

This message in directed:

In the corner store of the Iler Grand Hotel Building, 16th and Howard Streets, there is being displayed now a collection of Oriental Rugs which, is magnificence, is second to none in the country. This large collection of the most beautiful specimens obtainable, consists of Rugs in all sizes, from the little door mat to the very large carpets. Royal Keshans, Saruks, Kirmanshahs, Bokaras and all the finer rugs you will find in great abundance. Excellent specimens of the less expensive ones also are in great plenty.

This collection, under the personal direction of Mr. Hovsep Nahigian, will be on display one week longer, and for this reason we wish to call your attention to the following:

A few weeks hence, in the spring, you will be in the market for, and will want to purchase some Oriental Rugs.

At that time you will not find a collection like this to select from. At that time, also, you will pay high prices for rugs of inferior quality.

Making your selection now, from this well known "Nahigian" collection, will mean a Rug of quality in your possession and a saving of 25% to 33%.

We urgently request your early insection.

H. P. WHITMORE,
